

Dear Friend,

If you have been in an accident or otherwise injured you may find that you need a lawyer. There may have been a time in the past when a person could handle their own claim but those days are gone. Due to changes in the law and other factors, insurance companies have the upper hand nowadays. Insurance companies have plenty of lawyers working for them, so what you need is a lawyer working for you. I have always been a lawyer who represents people, not insurance companies or other large corporations. While it is certainly true that those businesses need lawyers too, as far as I'm concerned, they can find someone else. If you have been involved in an accident, harmed by a defective product, hurt on the job or otherwise injured, I invite you to call my office.

Sincerely yours,
